The Value of Water

We all depend on water every day. We expect it every time we turn on the faucet or hose, and yet many of us do not understand how our island's unique ecosystem provides us with this priceless resource and how the water system delivers water to you. To extend the life of this resource, we need to be more conscious of where our water comes from, how it's delivered and to practice water conservation in our daily lives.

The Board of Water Supply (BWS) is proud to sponsor a Youth Xchange Category about The Value of Water. Submit a 30-second video to the BWS Public Service Announcement category and convey the Value of Water.

How can you demonstrate and recognize the value of water?

Through learning about Oahu's water cycle, good water management and water conservation practices.

Where can you get more information?

Visit the Water Resources & Conservation pages at www.boardofwatersupply.com or call the BWS Communications Office at 748-5041.
