Category: World War II in Hawaii

Description: Hawaii's history is tied to its lands and people. This category is looking for untold stories from our many communities and their World War II experiences.

Reach out to your kupuna and learn about the stories that have been passed down.

Did someone witness the attack on Pearl Harbor?

Is there a story of military courage of an individual who volunteered in the service?

How did your family live during martial law?

Many people have these stories in their families and their local communities but have not heard them.

Uncover a story of World War II that relates to Hawaii to share with the rest of the world.
